

ANMER MERE YACHT CLUB SAILS INTO THE SUNSET

At a recent meeting the members of this somewhat “tongue in cheek” organisation, after enjoying a successful Sunday Lunch, decided to suspend any future activities indefinitely. Despite previous successful “projects” such as opening up a canal from Anmer Mere via Fring Docks to Heacham Harbour, launching a recycled paper boat to compete in the America’s Cup and walking across the Wash, it was felt that the Club had run its course.

As there were surplus funds of £160 remaining it was agreed that these should be donated to a worthwhile cause and what more worthwhile cause than one of the Mayor’s Charities – the Purfleet Trust! The picture shows Peter Harris Commodore of the Anmer Mere Yacht Club and George King, Ships Bursar handing over the funds to the Mayor - Nick Daubney.
