mer one of the first villages in the country to go fully Green.

The aim is that Anmer will become the second "Green Britain Centre", with a viewing platform at the top of the wind turbine from where visitors will be able to look out over the surrounding countryside and become a popular destination for school and college trips.

The centre will be open at weekends during the summer months for guided tours thus attracting visitors and much needed revenue into the village.

As this application could be controversial and the club realise that there may be one or two objections to the scheme it has been decided to hold an open meeting for the public to come along to view the plans and put forward their views.

This will be at midday today in the social club. The bar will be open and teas and coffees available. It is hoped that as many people as possible will be able to attend this meeting and support the yacht club in this.

For more details the club can be contacted by calling 01485 20140401.

Anmer Mere Yacht Club members have announced that it is their intention to put in for a planning application to transform village life.

The ambitious project involves dismantling the existing Community Centre and Social Club which was built in the early 1900s and rebuilding it 500 yards to the west along the main road where the former village club now stands leaving the space free for the construction of a solar farm and wind turbine.

A spokesman for the Anmer Mere Yacht Club told the Lynn News that the benefits of this plan are enormous. The energy produced will be sufficient to provide electricity for the whole village including Anmer Hall, the future residence of the Duke and Duchess of Cambridge and the proceeds of the sale of the excess energy back to the National Grid will be used to offset council tax bills for all the residents of the village.

The project will make An-
